

Fibre Friends Fiction

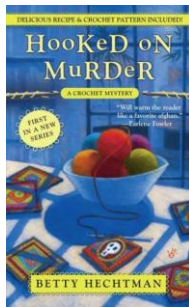

(Fiction Books/ Magazines about knitting and needle-work)

Chicks with Sticks

By Elizabeth Lenhard

It's like Sisterhood of the Travelling Pants but with yarn! The girls take school by storm, knitting during their lunch periods and study sessions. They bond over joys, trials, and their works in progress.

Hooked on Murder

By Betty Hechtman

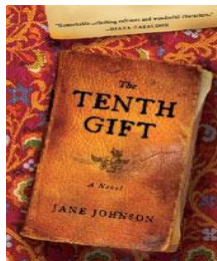

When bookstore event coordinator Molly Pink stumbles across the dead body of a crochet group's leader, her complicated past with the woman makes her a prime suspect.

The Shop on Blossom Street

By Debbie Macomber

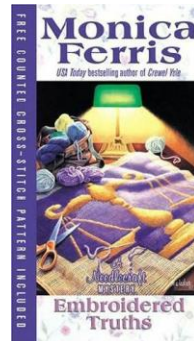

Lydia Hoffman has defeated cancer twice. To celebrate life, Lydia opens A Good Yarn, a knitting supplies store in Seattle, making good friends along the way.

The Tenth Gift

By Jane Johnson

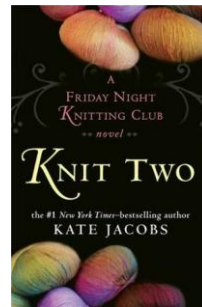

Dual story lines feature spirited English heroines—a 17th-century country girl and a modern-day Craft shop owner—both with a gift for embroidery.

Embroidered Truths

By Monica Ferris

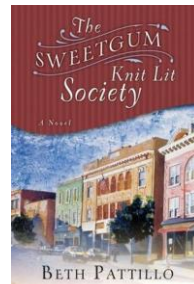

Full-time needlework shop owner and part-time sleuth Betsy Devonshire has already sewn up her share of crafty conundrums. Now, she takes on her most difficult, dangerous, and deeply personal case yet.

Knit Two

By Kate Jacobs

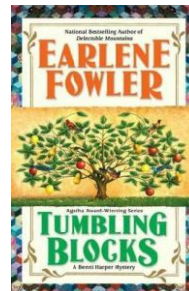

A Friday Night Knitting Club Novel. The group Georgia formed, the Friday Night Knitting Club, lives on in her absence despite how different all of the members are.

The Sweetgum Knit Lit Society

By Beth Pattillo

Take five knitters, put them in a book club, expand it to include a rebellious teen and you've got this interesting "yarn"!

Tumbling Blocks

By Earlene Fowler

Benni, curator of a Folk Art Museum, watches her stress level rise as she prepares for a major new exhibition of California Outsider Art while solving a murder.
