

Clean Vampire Reads (Ages 12-18)

Braced 2 Bite

By Serena Robar
Colby's been turned into a vampire, and her orthodontist father removed her wisdom teeth so she can't even feed properly. What's a girl to do?

Dracula

By John Green
Colin, a washed-up child prodigy with a thing for Katherines, sets out on a road trip to prove his Theorem of Underlying Katherine Predictability.

Darkangel

By Meredith Pierce
Aeriel is taken by the fearsome darkangel and knows she must stop him from gaining full power. But she finds herself torn between killing him and trying to save him.

Boys That Bite

By Laura Preble
Shelby, a pretty and witty geek army of one decides to form a Queen Geek Social club along with her new friend Becca.

Glass Houses

By Rachel Caine
Claire needs to leave her nightmare dorm situation behind so she takes the fourth room in an off campus house. But the town, and the house residents, aren't what they seem.

Vampire Kisses

By Cecil Castellucci
Sci-fi obsessed Egg thinks she doesn't need anyone until she becomes friends with a new guy at school who starts to pull her out of her shell.

Eighth Grade Bites

By Vladimir Tod
Vladimir must hide the fact that he's a vampire all while searching for a missing teacher and avoiding the pitfalls of teenage life.

Companions of the Night

By Piper Banks
Math genius Miranda (known as "the human calculator") doesn't even fit in with the other high-IQ students at her school, probably because they all have actually useful talents.

Evernight

By Tonya Hurley
Charlotte has always felt invisible at school, but now she really is: she's dead. But being dead doesn't stop her from wanting to be popular... it just makes her more creative.

Vampire Diaries

By Barry Lyga
First revered as a hero, then deemed unpatriotic by his town, Kevin decides to become political, questioning what exactly it is to support the troops.